DAVEY DRAWS HIS MESSAGE TO ASSEMBLY

Governor to Appear at 1:30 Wednesday before Joint Assemblage

NEED OLD AGE FUND

Bittinger Silent on Length of Session

COLUMBUS, Sept. 17—Finishing touches were applied today by Gov. Martin L. Davey to the most important state document of his administration thus far, his message to the special session of the Ohio legislature convening at 1:30 p. m. tomorrow.

The message in all probability will be delivered to a joint session of the house and senate in person by the governor.

It will deal first of all with the urgent necessity of appropriating funds with which to continue old age pension payments through the remainder of 1935.

To Plead for Bonds

But so far as the future of the Davey administration is concerned, its most important part will contain the executive's appeal to the assembly to get up a corporation to issue $3,000,000 in bonds without which Davey's ambitious $20,000,000 state institutional building program will collapse of its own weight.

A third matter of vital importance on the agenda of the special session will be brief was that of providing for direct relief of indigent Ohioans after the federal government withdraws this aid on Nov. 1.

There was no divergent opinion on the necessity of providing an

EX-PRESIDENT IN PLEA FOR RIGHTS

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Sept. 17—Former President Herbert Hoover, speaking today at a Constitution day observance at the California-Pacific international exposition, issued a fervent plea for the rights of the individual against encroaching governments.

He talked particularly of the bill of rights and declared the fate of the nation is involved. "I shall refer to but one phase of the constitution in its many bearings upon national life that is the bill of rights," Mr. Hoover said.

"Today the constitution is indeed under more vivid discussion than at any time since the years before the Civil war. The background of that issue was negro slavery, but in the foreground was the constitutional question of states' rights and in the final determination was the fate of the union."

WHEAT MEETINGS START TONIGHT

The first of a series of meetings for explanation of the 1936 wheat contract program will be held at the farm bureau office tonight at 8 o'clock in charge of the county wheat committee. Farmers of Circleville and Washington-twp are invited to the meeting.

Meetings will be held Wednesday at 8 p. m. at the Darby, Mulenberg and Pickaway-twp school buildings. Thursday at 8 p. m. meetings will be held for Jackson, Madison and Monroe-twps in the school buildings. Saltercock, Seoto and Walnut-twp farmers will meet in the school buildings at 8 p. m. Friday.

The Deercock-twp meeting will be held Monday at the school. Other meetings Monday will be in Harrison-twp at the Duvall school and Perry-twp at the Atlanta school. The final meeting is Tuesday, Sept. 24, in Wayne-twp at the school.

ELKS TO VISIT C. E. GROCE HOME

Members of B. P. O. Elks lodge No. 77 are urged to gather at the lodge home to visit the residence of the late Col. Charles E. Groce at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday. The members will visit the home in a body.

Ex-Envoy Asks Probe

Oliver B. Chamberlain

Charging maladministration, favoritism, collusion and irregularities in the state department, former Vice Consul Oliver B. Chamberlain, above, demanded a congressional investigation of his dismissal from the foreign service. Chamberlain's allegation influenced his ousting followed the charge of self-slain George E. Hanson, veteran consul, that certain American interests caused his removal from Moscow.

LEGION LISTS ITS NOMINEES

Dauenbauer and Radcliff Selected for Commanders; Election is Wednesday

Fred Dauenbauer and Sheriff Charles Radcliff were nominated for command of the American Legion post, American Legion No. 1336, at a meeting of the nominating committee Monday night. Frank Littleton is the present commander.

The nominating committee is composed of George Burns, Bryan Custer and Ralph Ward. The committee's recommendations will be offered the legion Wednesday night when election of officers will be held.

Other recommendations are: James Shea and Roy Norris for assistant; Forrest Short and Lawrence Goeller, first vice commander; Edgan Morrison and Mark Parrell, second vice commander; Henry Mason and James Cook, chaplain; and Christian Schwarz and Joe Lynch, treasurer.

John Goodchild, Ralph Beck, Charles W. Davis and Harry Timmons were recommended for sergeant-at-arms. Two will be elected. Three will be elected to the executive committee this year to serve two year terms. The nominees are: Bryan Custer, Paul Johnson, Earl Smith, Allen Thornton, Harry Timmons and Howard Irwin.

The committee announced in addition to its recommendations other candidates may be offered by members at the meeting.

50,000 VOTE IN COLUMBUS TODAY

COLUMBUS, Sept. 17—Eleven officials predicted 50,000 state capital voters would go to the polls today to cast ballots in the mayoralty primary.

Eight candidates, including the incumbent, Henry Worley, Democrat, and Representative Myron Gessaman, Republican, sought the two mayoralty nominations. In addition, the voters were nominating candidates for municipal judge, city auditor, city clerk and city council.

FLYERS JAILED IN KOENECKE'S DEATH

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 17—Charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of Len Koenecke, Brooklyn Dodger outfielder, in an airplane above this city, Pilot W. J. Mulquy and Irving Davis, Detroit parachute jumper, were remanded until Friday on manslaughter charges to day.

Bail was not arranged at their appearance before Magistrate Douglas Davidson in county court.

Man Thrown 30 Feet as Crash Kills Farmer, 29

Bert Leroy Smith, Tenant on Dr. Hosler's Farm, Victim; Brother-In-Law Thrown Into Field; Wreck Stirs Bess, Several Stung

Bert Leroy Smith, 29, of Amanda, R. F. D. was instantly killed, and Milton Harber, 37, is in St. Francis hospital, Columbus, with a compound fracture of the left leg and possible internal injuries as the result of an auto accident Monday afternoon just north of Ashville.

Smith and Milton Harber were riding in the rumble seat of a Ford coupe driven west by Asa Harber on a county road. Both were thrown out of the rumble seat when the car collided with a Chevrolet sedan driven by Robert Eccard, Ashville, going north out Long-st.

Thrown Against Bank
Smith was thrown against the bank of a ditch and died of a fractured skull and broken neck. Harber was thrown over a fence about 30 feet into a field. He was removed to the hospital in the E. F. Schlegel ambulance. The coupe was knocked backwards into the ditch and Sheriff Charles Radcliff reported Smith's body was pinned between the auto and a fence. George Harber, 60, father of Milton and Asa and a brother-in-law of Smith, was riding in the front seat of the coupe. The men were enroute to a farm to cut corn.

Mrs. Eccard and a son were riding in the Eccard car. They were going north of Ashville to purchase some peaches.

Mr. Smith was a tenant on the farm of Dr. R. S. Hosler, Ashville, located east of the Amanda-twp cemetery. He was born Feb. 12, 1906, the son of Oliver and May Baker Smith. He is survived by his widow, Rosie Harber Smith. A two year old child of the Smiths died several months ago.

Funeral Wednesday
Funeral services will be held at the home of George Harber on Wednesday at 2 p. m. and burial will be in Walnut Hill cemetery near Columbus. The services are in charge of E. F. Schlegel.

Sheriff Charles Radcliff reported neither of the cars were badly damaged in the collision. He said the Ford appeared to have been struck near the rear wheel and explained the car was whirled around throwing out the occupants of the rumble seat. The accident occurred about one-fourth of a mile north of Ashville.

The Harber car when it went into the ditch stirred up a bumble bee nest and Sheriff Radcliff reported several Ashville residents were stung by the bees. Sheriff Radcliff and Deputy Bob Armstrong investigated the accident.

May Issue Bonds
It is believed council will have to issue bonds to take care of the situation.

All county relief clients who appealed to the commissioners Monday were directed to go to their township trustees for aid. All relief will be handled through the sub-divisions unless warranted to the commissioners, the board members said.

Active pallbearers will be Charles H. May, Mack Parrell Jr., Lawrence E. Goeller, John D. Hummel, Dr. D. V. Courtwright, Robert D. Musser, George P. Foresman, and Howard A. Orr.

WHEAT PRICE IS CLIMBING

War Freight Forces Price Up; Three Cents Jump Reported on Local Market

The price of wheat on the local market jumped three cents a bushel today as greater demand was seen on the various Boards of Trade as one of the results of the threatened war in Africa.

The J. W. Eshelman and Son Co., offering 83 cents Monday went up to 86 cents today.

Strength in the foreign markets also boosted the price in the midwest.

In Chicago, December wheat jumped to 98 1/2 cents a bushel and held to that price in spite of profit-taking by the traders. May wheat sold at 99 1/2 cents a bushel, the highest price of the season.

Other grains were also calling for increased prices.

At Buenos Aires, prices opened 1 1/2 cents higher following advance Monday and sharp upturns occurred at Liverpool and Winnipeg. In the Kansas City market, December and May wheat sold above the $1 mark.

Gordon Confers on New Boiler Expense

Ben Gordon, as a representative of city council, met with the county commissioners Monday, asking county aid on the installation of the new boiler at the Memorial hall.

Although city council has been informed it must furnish repairs to the building under an old contract for the library section, it believes county aid should be given since the library is now a county institution.

The commissioners took no action on the request stating they wished to discuss the matter with Ralph May, third member of the board, now on a vacation trip in Texas.

Elks Lodge Planning Pumpkin Show Dances

Plans for dances and other entertainment at the Elks home on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of the Pumpkin show were made Monday evening when various B. P. O. Elks lodge committees met.

It was decided to conduct social plan dances with the best orchestra available. The lodge's cash room will be thrown open to the dancers.

Joe W. Adkins Jr. is chairman of the committee arranging the dance.

TWINS, 59, KILLED WALKING IN ROAD

CLEVELAND, Sept. 17—William and George Buelow, twins, 59, of suburban Middleburg Heights, were inseparable in life. Today they were together in death.

The gray-haired twins were killed by an automobile last night as they walked together on a road near their homes after a trip to Cleveland to inquire about their Spanish war pensions.

The driver of the car said he did not see them in the middle of the road until almost upon them. He was held for questioning.

U. S. TO FIGHT LONG'S AIDES

Huey's Death Fails to Halt Inquiry Into Income Tax Returns

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17—The death of Huey Long will have no deterrent effect whatever in the federal government's income tax drive against Long's political satellites, and the estate of the Kingfish himself, it was ascertained today.

Frequently, before an assassin's bullet cut down the spectacular career of the Louisiana dictator, it was reported in official quarters that the income tax G-Men were about to clamp down on him. But up to the time of his death, this had failed to materialize, although treasury investigators were and still are busily engaged on Huey's own case.

Seven of his closest political associates were indicted, and one of them, Joseph Fisher, former member of the Louisiana legislature, is now serving a sentence of 18 months upon conviction.

Treasury investigators have been unable thus far to determine the exact income of Long, or the amount of his estate, but the estimates run all the way from half a million dollars to six millions.

Some light may be thrown on the value of the estate next month when Abe L. Shushan, New Orleans merchant, and staunch ally of Huey, goes on trial of charges of tax evasion during the years 1930-31-32. It was during this period that Huey climbed to dictatorial heights in Louisiana.

OCT. 1 NAMED FLY FREE DATE HERE

Oct. 1 is the Pickaway-co Hessian fly-free date, according to an announcement Tuesday morning from F. K. Blair, county agricultural agent.

The fly-free date, after which wheat may be safely sown without damage from the fly, varies from Sept. 22 in the northern area of the state to as late as Oct. 5 in the southern tip.

Ohio entomologists report a survey shows two to three times as many flies were found this year as discovered in a survey conducted a year ago. It is estimated that one-fourth of the straw in stubble fields are infested with fly, compared with 15 per cent last year.

C. A. C. TO APPOINT FAIR COMMITTEES

Members of the C. A. C. will meet at the club tonight to make further plans and appoint committees to be in charge of the "old time" fair to be held in the gymnasium the week of Nov. 25. The club also plans a membership drive in the near future.

Mooney Confident AS HE IS PREPARED FOR FREEDOM PLEA

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17—Tom Mooney, America's foremost prisoner, came back to San Francisco today for the third time in eighteen years.

"I am certain that if the Supreme Court doesn't free at this time, leaving the U. S. Supreme Court will liberate me later. Freedom is only a matter of months," Mooney said.

Under personal supervision of Warren James B. Holohan, Mooney was brought here early this morning from his cell at San Quentin prison. Prison guards and San Francisco detectives escorted Mooney to San Francisco aboard the police launch, D. A. White.

Secrecy marked the transfer from the prison as Holohan and San Francisco police feared a demonstration from local radicals.

Appointment of Albert Abrahamson, above, 29-year-old Bowdoin college professor and a Republican as WPA head for the state of Maine, widens the split between President Roosevelt and Governor Louis J. Brann, Democrat, of Maine.

MAN, IN JAIL, SLASHES ARM

John Dewolf, Arrested for Drug Theft, Treated for 3-Inch Gash

Sheriff Charles Radcliff reported Monday night John Dewolf, bound to the grand jury by Mayor Cady for breaking and entering the office of Dr. G. W. Heffner and stealing $14 worth of drugs, attempted suicide at the county jail by slashing his right arm with a sharp instrument.

Drs. Heffner and Jackson treated Dewolf for a three-inch cut on his arm. Other prisoners in the jail called Onno Wilson, a trusty, when they discovered Dewolf bleeding from the wound. Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver took Dewolf to Berger hospital for treatment.

The sheriff and his deputies were unable to find the instrument Dewolf used. Other prisoners told them he threw whatever he used in a toilet.

Dewolf is a Marietta resident.

STORM CRIPPLES BRITISH STEAMERS

LONDON, Sept. 17—Four British steamers were severely crippled and scores more were damaged today as an 80-mile-an-hour gale swept across England and isolated the British Isles from the continent.

The 1,735-ton freighter Rounston Manor, which sent out hurried distress calls and then was silent for more than five hours, finally was reached off the Isle of Wight by the destroyer, Sandonyx, which radioed the captain had been washed overboard. The crew of 16 was believed safe.

Commander Randall of the SS Manhattan revealed upon arrival at Plymouth he had picked up an SOS from the 4,000-ton freighter Mary Kingsley, shipping water in gale 10 miles south of the Scilly Isles.

Great Britain Orders More Ships to East

ROME, SEPT. 17—An official denial was issued today concerning rumors hostilities had broken out along the Italo-Abyssinian frontier. The rumors were declared groundless.

ROME, Sept. 17—Nineteen thousand more Italian World War veterans volunteered today for service with Premier Mussolini's forces in Africa.

At the same time, amid scenes of enthusiasm, 4,000 more black shirts sailed from Naples for East Africa aboard the Conte Biancamano.

Earlier in the day Mussolini, confident European powers would not impose penalties against his Ethiopian campaign, speeded 4,500 soldiers to Eritrea. Three thousand sailed on four ships from Genoa and 1,500 on one transport from Naples.

France To Build Aviation Strength

PARIS, Sept. 17—France plunged into the rearmament race of war-frightened Europe today with an emergency appropriation of 35,000,000 francs ($5,600,000) for aviation development.

The money will be used within the crucial next two months, said the official journal, "for unavoidable expenditures."

The aviation credits were decreed under the special powers granted to Premier Pierre Laval, as France's temporary "financial dictator," when Parliament adjourned.

British to Block Sea to Italians

By International News Service
The tail of the British lion was seen twitching ominously today as dispatches from Athens disclosed plans calling for concentration of 71 trim British warships on the western coast of Greece—directly across the little Ionian sea from the southeastern coast of Italy.

Interest in the Italo-Ethiopian quarrel shifted abruptly to the eastern Mediterranean with the following developments:

LONDON—Although British admiralty remains officially silent, Athens correspondents reveal 26 British battleships and cruisers and 45 auxiliaries and destroyers are scheduled to hold maneuvers late this month and early next off several western Greek ports. Tension increases with circulation of rumors Italy also is concentrating ships in eastern Mediterranean.

GENEVA—Italo-Ethiopian peace moves hit delay as British and French differ over procedure.

PARIS—Mussolini tells French newspaper Le Matin "sanctions mean war."

GIBRALTAR—Big British fleet concentrated strategically at western entrance to Mediterranean.

ADDIS ABABA—H. R. Knickerbocker estimates more than 1,000,000 Ethiopians now under arms.

BUCYRUS APPROVES OHIO FUEL OFFER

BUCYRUS, Sept. 17—New gas rates as approved by an ordinance of city council will become effective here Monday, Sept. 25, Neil McCaron, manager of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. here, announced today. Recently the company withdrew its application before the state utilities commission for a higher rate. The new rate will increase bills about 40 cents a month against the 80-cent increase.

LIBRARY TO CLOSE

The library will be closed from 12:30 to 6 p. m. Wednesday in observance of the death of Col. C. E. Groce, president of the library board.

COUNCIL MAY FLOAT BONDS TO AID NEEDY

No Funds in Relief Treasurer; County Provides Emergency Aid

As an emergency relief measure to aid the city, which at the present time has no relief fund, the county commissioners Monday afternoon granted a few orders to city residents.

The action was taken after John C. Goeller, president of council, met with the commissioners and explained the city could furnish no relief to clients and action could not be taken to raise a fund until council meets Wednesday night.

To Recommend Fund

Mr. Goeller said he would make a report to the finance committee of council Wednesday night and recommend a fund be raised to take care of the city's share of relief. He explained the city would not receive money from the tax distribution for about one month.

Ben Gordon, chairman of the council finance committee, reported at noon Tuesday the general fund at present contains only enough money to take care of city expenses until the next distribution is made.

Previously council has used money in the gas and auto tax fund for relief but Carl C. Leist, city solicitor reported recent legislation prohibited the practice.

May Issue Bonds

It is believed council will have to issue bonds to take care of the situation.

All county relief clients who appealed to the commissioners Monday were directed to go to their township trustees for aid. All relief will be handled through the subdivisions unless warranted to the commissioners, the board members said.

MAN, IN JAIL, SLASHES ARM

John DeWolf, Arrested for Drug Theft, Treated for 3-Inch Gash

Sheriff Charles Radcliff reported Monday night John DeWolf, bound to the grand jury by Mayor Cady for breaking and entering the office of Dr. G. W. Heffner and stealing $14 worth of drugs, attempted suicide at the county jail by slashing his right arm with a sharp instrument.

Drs. Heffner and Jackson treated DeWolf for a three-inch cut on his arm. Other prisoners in the jail called Onno Wilson, a trusty, when they discovered DeWolf bleeding from the wound. Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver took DeWolf to Berger hospital for treatment.

The sheriff and his deputies were unable to find the instrument DeWolf used. Other prisoners told them he threw whatever he used in a toilet.

DeWolf is a Marietta resident.

STORM CRIPPLES BRITISH STEAMERS

LONDON, Sept. 17.—Four British steamers were severely crippled and scores more were damaged today as an 80-mile-an-hour gale swept across England and isolated the British Isles from the continent.

The 1,735-ton freighter Brompton Manor, which sent out hurried distress calls and then was silence for more than five hours, finally was reached off the Isle of Wight by the destroyer Sarnodony, which radioed the captain had been washed overboard. The crew of 16 was believed safe.

Commodore Randall of the SS Manhattan revealed upon arrival at Plymouth he had picked up an SOS from the 4,000-ton freighter Mary Kingsley, shipping water in gale 40 miles south of the Scilly Isles.

MOONEY CONFIDENT AS HE IS PREPARED FOR FREEDOM PLEA

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—Tom Mooney, America's foremost prisoner, came back to San Francisco today—for the third time in eighteen years—convinced that full exoneration and freedom were in sight, at least.

"I am certain that if the Supreme Court doesn't free at this new hearing, the U. S. Supreme Court will liberate me later. Freedom is only a matter of months," Mooney said.

Under personal supervision of Warden James B. Holohan, Mooney was brought here early this morning from his cell at San Quentin prison. Prison guards and San Francisco detectives escorted Mooney to San Francisco aboard the police launch, D. A. White.

Secrecy marked the transfer from the prison as Holohan and San Francisco police feared a demonstration from local radicals.

Great Britain Orders More Ships to East

ROME, SEPT. 17.—An official denial was issued today concerning rumors hostilities had broken out along the Italo-Abyssinian frontier.

The rumors were declared groundless.

ROME, Sept. 17.—Nineteen thousand more Italian World War veterans volunteered today for service with Premier Mussolini's forces in Africa.

At the same time, amid scenes of enthusiasm, 4,000 more black shirts sailed from Naples for East Africa aboard the Conte Biancamano.

Earlier in the day Mussolini, confident European powers would not impose penalties against his Ethiopian campaign, speeded 4,500 soldiers to Eritrea. Three thousand sailed on four ships from Genoa and 1,500 on one transport from Naples.

France To Build Aviation Strength

PARIS, Sept. 17.—France plunged into the rearmament race of war-frightened Europe today with an emergency appropriation of 35,000,000 francs ($5,600,000) for aviation development.

The money will be used within the crucial next two months, said the official journal, "for unavoidable expenditures."

The aviation credits were decreed under the special powers granted to Premier Pierre Laval, as France's temporary "financial dictator," when Parliament adjourned.

British to Block Sea to Italians

By International News Service
The tail of the British lion was seen twitching ominously today as dispatches from Athens disclosed plans calling for concentration of 71 trim British warships on the western coast of Greece—directly across the little Ionian sea from the southeastern coast of Italy.

Interest in the Italo-Ethiopian quarrel shifted abruptly to the eastern Mediterranean with the following developments:

LONDON.—Although British admiralty remains officially silent, Athens correspondents reveal 26 British battleships and cruisers and 45 auxiliaries and destroyers are scheduled to hold maneuvers late this month and early next off several western Greek ports. Tension increases with circulation of rumors Italy also is concentrating ships in eastern Mediterranean.

GENEVA.—Italo-Ethiopian peace moves hit delay as British and French differ over procedure.

PARIS.—Mussolini tells French newspaper Le Matin "sanctions mean war."

GIBRALTAR.—Big British fleet concentrated strategically at western entrance to Mediterranean.

ADDIS ABABA.—H. R. Knickerbocker estimates more than 1,000,000 Ethiopians now under arms.

BUCYRUS APPROVES OHIO FUEL OFFER

BUCYRUS, Sept. 17.—New gas rates as approved by an ordinance of city council will become effective here Monday, Sept. 25, Neil McCaron, manager of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. here, announced today. Recently the company withdrew its application before the state utilities commission for a higher rate. The new rate will increase bills about 40 cents a month against the 80-cent increase.

THE PRESENT PROBLEM

A young woman, having her fortune told, was listening to a wonderful line from the fortune teller.

"You will visit many foreign lands, and the courts of kings and queens," the mystic intoned. "You will conquer all rivals, and marry the man of your choice. He will be tall, dark, and handsome, aristocratic, young, and rich."

"Oh, isn't that lovely?" the young woman exclaimed. "Now, tell me just one more thing. How will I get rid of my present husband?"

I've seen the rise and am now seeing the decline of the American theater. It's frightfully sad. I've known the time when 400 companies were starting out from New York every fall. Charles T. Dazey, dean of American playwrights.

A FRIEND IN NEED

A Wall Street broker, summering along the Jersey coast, left one morning to drive into the city. Clouds were threatening, and as the traffic along the main highway was increasing, he thought he could save time by detouring onto a less traveled road. Hitting 60 miles an hour, a hitch hiker thumbled him for a ride. Stopping, he gave the fellow a lift. Then, when once more he had speeded up, an alert motor cop hove along, side and handed him a ticket; and with the pastboard and the thought that his fellow passenger might "stick him up," he was in a most distressing state of mind. When leaving the Holland tunnel, the hitch hiker got out, and as he did he said: "You thought I was a 'stick-up' man, didn't you? Well, I'm not. I'm only a first-class pickpocket, and here is the cop's book, with copy of your ticket in it. Much obliged for the ride."

PATTERN 5433

New and effective—the lacy all-in-one collar and scarf which top this smart fall blouse. And you're going to love this blouse, too, with that new suit. It's so easy to do, just simple, plain, knitting stitches with narrow openwork stripes adding interest. They give the blouse a pretty, ribbed effect. Collar and scarf are done with a more lacy stitch which makes a nice contrast. Sleeves may be either long or short. Knit it of yarn in one of the new fall shades let your plain knitted skirt match to it.

In pattern 5433 you will find complete instructions for making the blouse with long and short sleeves and skirt shown in sizes 16-18 and 38-40; an illustration of them and of the stitches needed; material requirements.

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main-st., Circleville, Ohio.

Circleville Family Finds Gas Heat Economical

This attractive 8-room home of C. G. Shulze, 214 South Court Street, heated by gas at an average cost of only $14.33 per month during the heating season. "We are entirely satisfied with the gas-fired Janitrol burner installed in our furnace," states Mr. Shulze.

You Too Can Enjoy Modern Heating In Your Home

What are the expenses incidental to the fuel which heats your home — extra cleaning bills, the expense of furnace tending and removing ashes, medical attention for winter ailments resulting from up-and-down temperatures? These costs add up to several dollars a week for the average family—much more than enough to pay the small additional fuel cost for clean, convenient gas heat. Let one of our heating engineers estimate the cost of heating your home with gas. No obligations. Just call —

A FRIEND IN NEED

A Wall Street broker, summering along the Jersey coast, left one morning to drive into the city. Clouds were threatening, and as the traffic along the main highway was increasing, he thought he could save time by detouring onto a less traveled road. Hitting 60 miles an hour, a hitch hiker thumbed him for a ride. Stopping, he gave the fellow a lift. Then, when once more he had speeded up, an alert motor cop hove alongside and handed him a ticket; and with the pasteboard and the thought that his fellow passenger might "stick him up," he was in a most distressing state of mind. When leaving the Holland tunnel, the hitch hiker got out, and as he did he said: "You thought I was a 'stick-up man,' didn't you? Well, I'm not. I'm only a first-class pickpocket, and here is the cop's book, with copy of your ticket in it. Much obliged for the ride."

PATTERN 5433

New and effective—the lacy all-in-one collar and scarf which top this smart fall blouse. And you're going to love this blouse, too, with that new suit. It's so easy to do, just simple, plain, knitting stitches with narrow openwork stripes adding interest. They give the blouse a pretty, ribbed effect. Collar and scarf are done with a more lacy stitch which makes a nice contrast. Sleeves may be either long or short. Knit it of yarn in one of the new fall shades—let your plain knitted skirt match to it.

In pattern 5433 you will find complete instructions for making the blouse with long and short sleeves and skirt shown in sizes 16-18 and 38-40; an illustration of them and of the stitches needed; material requirements.

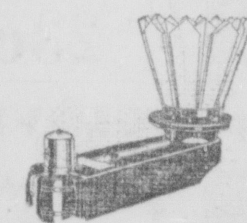

To obtain this pattern send 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred) to The Herald Household Arts Dept., 124 W. Main-st., Circleville, Ohio.

Circleville Family Finds Gas Heat Economical

This attractive 8-room home of C. G. Shulze, 316 South Court Street, heated by gas at an average cost of only $14.33 per month during the heating season. "We are entirely satisfied with the gas-fired Janitrol burner installed in our furnace," states Mr. Shulze.

You Too Can Enjoy Modern Heating In Your Home

Janitrol, the automatic gas-fired unit, fits into your present furnace to furnish your home with clean heat of even temperature. Economical to operate. Requires no attention. For a nominal charge, may be purchased on easy terms and paid for like rent.

What are the expenses incidental to the fuel which heats your home — extra cleaning bills, the expense of furnace tending and removing ashes, medical attention for winter ailments resulting from up-and-down temperatures? These costs add up to several dollars a week for the average family—much more than enough to pay the small additional fuel cost for clean, convenient gas heat. Let one of our heating engineers estimate the cost of heating your home with gas. No obligations. Just call —

COL. CHARLES E. GROCE

IT is hard to believe that Col. Groce is dead. It seems that only yesterday we met him on the street and in his characteristic friendly greeting, shook hands with us and inquired: "How are you?"

It was this simple warmth of friendship, a gentlemanly quality which some men, we regret to say, throw off when they attain position, that endeared the "colonel" to almost every citizen in Circleville and hundreds in the county.

He was always the same refined gentleman in his home where he enjoyed the companionship of his wife and children; at the Rotary Club where he was the oldest member in years but the youngest in spirit; at the church which he attended unwaveringly and to which he gave much time and money, and in his business, where he was fair, progressive and a hard worker.

As a public-spirited citizen, loyal to the hometown to a degree where he had few equals, he will be sadly missed. It was in Circleville that Col. Groce's father built the great, nation-wide business of "Groce's Hams" and to which the son, Charles, became a part in November, 1872, when the firm name became Groce and Son.

Maybe Col. Groce felt a sense of gratitude to his hometown and surrounding community which supplied the raw materials and the ultimate wealth in Groce's pork-packing business and his unswerving loyalty to Circleville's interest was merely a means of saying "thank you."

At any rate we do know that the "colonel" was on the front line working and working hard every time that Circleville tried to put anything over. We'll all remember him as the chairman of the centennial celebration in 1910 and for the splendid job he did in making this event a really memorable and momentous one in the town's history.

As a staunch and hard-working member of the Republican party, Col. Groce rose high in prominence and in his earlier years directed the affairs of the party in Pickaway-co as well as shared a large part in Republican affairs of the state. But some of Col. Groce's closest friends were Democrats and he never allowed his political partisanship to interfere with any of his friendships.

In almost every civic activity, Col. Groce found a place. The city council, Rotary club, library board, Pickaway Country Club, the Masonic lodge, C. A. C., Circleville Benevolent Society, and chairman of the loan committee during the World War period, were only a few of the organizations in which he had a part and in all of them he did his part willingly and well.

His generosity was unbounded, much of it hidden behind an unostentatiousness which so characterized the man.

Col. Groce enjoyed life. Behind his 84 years there lurked a spark of youthfulness which made him one of us. He never seemed out of place even at a gathering of young folks. A keen sense of humor, and a determination to be as young as possible probably accounted for this. A noble personage has left us in the "colonel's" passing. We trust that he has gone to a reward which awaits every man whose life has been so wholesomely spent.

To Mrs. Groce, the widow, to the children, grandchildren, relatives and friends, The Herald extends its deep sympathy.

TWO IMPOSSIBLE SCORES

OF COURSE impossible scores, whether made during rubber bridge or in duplicate games invariably come through errors, but they more frequently are noted in duplicate play, as those scores are preserved and scanned later on. Mr. Joseph E. Kennedy noted two impossible scores in a recent duplicate game in Brooklyn, on the single deal given today.

the small slam. What had he done? He would be needed and needed. Far more mysterious is how one North bidder played the hand at 6-Hearts doubled and made it. Careful play insured two tricks for West; it is conceivable that after two rounds of high spades declarer may have entered dummy with the Ace of hearts, then led the Q of spades, of course a low risk if West would be overruled with North's 8, thus adding declarer to pick up all trumps outstanding. Such an event would enable North to win 12 tricks, and lose only to the Ace of clubs.

At three tables North played a contract of 6-Hearts. The opening lead at all three tables was the 5 of spades. Two pairs fulfilled their small slam contract. One pair went down a trick. How did he manage to do this? Declarer has a choice of 13 tricks out of 15: 2 spades, 4 hearts, 5 diamonds and 3 clubs. The way of going down a trick was to take 4 heart tricks, then a heart in West's hand, instead of running off 3 spades and 5 diamond tricks, to let a club before making defense.

At another club the above hand appeared in a duplicate game. Some bid 6-Clubs and made a grand slam, although nobody bid 6 of spades. Several tables played a call of 6-Hearts, with East as declarer, but each of them went down a trick. Before Monday see if 6-odd at no trumps can be made against perfect defense.

THE DEVIL'S MANSION

CHAPTER 49
BLAIR SOUGHT out the hotel dining room captain and found Miss Boardman's usual check. For a woman, who seemed ill and frail, she ordered a good deal... easily enough for two persons, he decided. After more inquiry, he found the waiter who had taken up her meals. No, there was just the lady in the room... the parlor where he had served her meals. His description tallied with that of the bell boy. When he had obtained all the information he could, Blair went up to his room to think things out. He had scarcely entered the room when there was a timid knock at the door. Frowning, he called, "Come in." "Just me, sir." The chambermaid put her head in the door, and then entered slowly. "Sorry to bother you, sir, but there's something I forgot. I thought you might like to know... seein's you was interested in 'em is it?" "When I went in to clean before these people what are in there now come, I had to wash off all the mirrors with kerosene! Yes, I did. They was all painted over with something... an' you couldn't tell when you looked at 'em... except you couldn't see yourself in 'em. No matter how you looked. They was lots of mirrors in the suite... and they was all painted over... even the hand mirror on the dressing table." If Blair had been doubtful that Maurice was with Janet, he was positive now. "Was it so awful? Did he even hate his own reflection in the mirror?" "The bell boy had not been certain the mysterious lady had told her driver to go to the docks..." Blair was speeding down to them again, anyway, on the chance the boy had heard correctly. This time he had a definite name that Janet was traveling under, that she might have sailed under. He could not understand how she could stay with Maurice, when it would have been so easy for her to get away... Maurice could not be with her all the time. Why had she made that trip to the docks Friday? Probably, he conjectured to secure passage for herself... and Maurice for some place. But why hadn't she left him then? Why hadn't she run away? Could she be sticking to the bargain she had made with him at the big house near Bolsevain? It was incredible to Blair Rodman. That she was in deadly fear of Maurice, he was certain... but she could get away! The bell boy had said she took only a heavy leather box with her. He thought the box was a little... I think the box was a little... in her eyes, but I'm not certain. She seemed even at my first interview with her, to be unhappy. "Is there a wireless aboard the Wanderer?" "Yes... It is fully equipped with everything, another thing, I asked if she had given any orders to the captain, and she said no; would I tell him to head out through the straits, and when the ship was out at casually as his eyes lighted on the name Wanderer, reading over the list of ships. "A private yacht, owned by Casper Able, of Vancouver. Went out Saturday afternoon for a trip around the world." "Was Mr. Able aboard?" "No. I believe not. He leased the yacht for a year to somebody... with a lot of money. At least, I heard rumors that he did." "Do you keep a passenger list of yachts?" "No. We have nothing to do with them. I only know the ship was cleared to leave port Saturday." "How much of a crew does it carry?" "About 25, I think. Big boat, one of the nicest here. Mr. Able has been waiting to sell it for some time, though. I suppose he thought he might as well get charter money for her as let her lie idle in the harbor." He helped Blair find the men who had loaded the Wanderer. They knew nothing of the new lease, except the only passenger they had seen aboard her was a woman, dressed in tan, and heavily veiled. After she went aboard, the Wanderer sailed immediately. Mr. Able had been there to see her off. Blair, after some difficulty, got hold of Able on the phone. Yes, he said, he had chartered the Wanderer for a year to a Miss Marie Boardman. She had insisted that there be no public announcement of the deal. She had called him Friday morning about the yacht. The rental fee, Able said, was $25,000 which had been paid to him in gold when he went to the woman's suite at the Vancouver hotel Saturday morning. She was a very beautiful girl, with light hair and violet eyes. She did not say much. He did most of the talking, telling her about the ship and showing her pictures of it. She said she was going on a long trip for her health. She demanded that the yacht be completely equipped for a long cruise by four o'clock that afternoon. He had said it was almost impossible, but when she insisted, he had tried his best, and succeeded in having everything ship-shape on schedule time. He had seen her off. Yes, she was alone. He had no idea where she was going, but he got the impression it was to be a world cruise. He had needed the money, and had not inquired too closely into Miss Boardman's plans. "Are you sure she was alone?" Blair asked again. "Positive." "There was no man with her?" "No. I personally took her to her stateroom. She asked to have some of her luggage put in another stateroom, adjoining hers. Then she bade me good-by, and raised her veil a little. I think the box was a little... in her eyes, but I'm not certain. She seemed even at my first interview with her, to be unhappy. "Is there a wireless aboard the Wanderer?" "Yes... It is fully equipped with everything, another thing, I asked if she had given any orders to the captain, and she said no; would I tell him to head out through the straits, and when the ship was out at Maynard's current James Oliver Curwood picture, "Northern Frontier," which comes to the screen of the Circle Theatre tonight and Wednesday. These men were chosen by Maurice Conn, the dynamic young producer whose courage elevated Kermit Maynard to stardom, because of their expertness in hand-to-hand fighting and for their knowledge of the strict routine and discipline of a mounted police post.

CUPID DROWNED

Today, day, as I was twining
Roses, for a crown to dine in,
What, of all things, 'mid the heap,
Should I light on, fast asleep,
But the little desperate elf,
By the wings I picked him up
Like a bee, and in a cup
The tiny traitor, Love, himself!
Of my wine I plunged and sank drunk him.
Faith, I thought him dead. Not he!
There he lives with ten-fold glee!
And now this moment with his wings
I feel him kicking my heart-strings.

Because the nilgau runs well enough to afford good sport, the chase of him amused Indian princes for ages. They are curious animals, quite friendly and tame but apparently continually angry. The nilgau has a stilted walk and drops on his knees to fight. He is generally found on exceedingly rough land. Wild dogs are his greatest enemies, but he is often the victim of tigers and leopards. The nilgau lives well in captivity, is easily housed and fed so that he is found in most zoos. He has been broken to harness.

New Dealers Preparing For Their Amend-The-Constitution Campaign

WASHINGTON—Whether you are for the Constitution or not, don't make any mistake about the fact that the Inner Circle has been extremely busy getting ready for an Amend-the-Constitution Campaign in 1936.

Even those Democratic politicians who fear Roosevelt may make a mistake in issuing his "horse-and-buggy" blast after the Supreme Court's NRA decision, now are changing their tune.

Notable among these is Big Jim Farley. Jim was heartbroken after Roosevelt championed the NRA. He felt that the Chief had been far too hasty in accepting the radical advice of Supreme Court reformer Felix Frankfurter of the Harvard Law School.

But since his survey of the country, Jim says that if the Court holds the Guffey Coal Bill unconstitutional, Pennsylvania will go Democratic in 1936.

Henry Wallace makes a similar prediction about general farm sentiment if the Court kicks out the AAA.

Book Tells How Mother Helped Paralyzed Child

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THERE ARE few things that are entirely hopeless. Doctors are inclined to say that such-and-such a thing cannot be done, and then there comes along the example of a person who has done it. Sometimes medical miracles are accomplished by a single stroke of genius; more often they are accomplished by the patient, long drawn out conquest of difficulties.

The story of a remarkable illustration of this has just been published. It is a book written by a doctor's wife, Mrs. Fischel, of St. Louis. Two of her sons were born with a form of paralysis known as "Little's Disease." You frequently see examples of the condition in the streets, crippled in mechanical chairs, their arms and legs twisted by spastic paralysis. Their heads may be thrown back and their movements jerky and awkward. The cause of the disease is probably an injury to the baby's brain before birth or during the process of birth, possibly with hemorrhages into the brain.

First Badly Afflicted
Mrs. Fischel's first child was so badly afflicted that he died at an early age. One can imagine the despair of the parents when the second boy was found to have the same condition, but Mrs. Fischel began to try to make the stiff and spastic muscles perform their normal functions. She devised, herself many exercises of re-education, and in the course of time the muscles responded and her son is able to live a reasonably normal life.

In this book, "The Spastic Child," she addresses herself to the parents of those who have experienced the same tragedy. It is a message of hope and encouragement. She describes in detail the movements of re-education which should be used for different cases, especially the re-education of the muscles of speech in the palate. It is a most remarkable book, and one which is a contribution to medical science as well as a work of instruction for those who may need it.

M. J. G.: "I suffer with canker sores in my mouth. Just what foods should I eat and what ones should I avoid?" I have been told to drink sauerkraut juice. I am a lover of fresh fruits. Should I avoid eating eggs? I generally have two included in one of my meals during the day." Answer: Canker sores are probably due to irritation of nerve ganglia and, insofar as is known, have nothing to do with food. Unfortunately we do not know any cause that influences their causation. The greatest harm that can come in treating them is to impose a lot of dietary restrictions which do not do any good and may result in an unbalanced diet.

COL. CHARLES E. GROCE

It is hard to believe that Col. Groce is dead.

It seems that only yesterday we met him on the street and in his characteristic friendly greeting, shook hands with us and inquired: "How are you?"

It was this simple warmth of friendship, a gentlemanly quality which some men, we regret to say, throw off when they attain position, that endeared the "colonel" to almost every citizen in Circleville and hundreds in the county.

He was always the same refined gentleman: in his home where he enjoyed the companionship of his wife and children; at the Rotary Club where he was the oldest member in years but the youngest in spirit; at the church which he attended unwaveringly and to which he gave much time and money, and in his business, where he was fair, progressive and a hard worker.

As a public-spirited citizen, loyal to the hometown to a degree where he had few equals, he will be sadly missed. It was in Circleville that Col. Groce's father built the great, nation-wide business of "Groce's Hams" and to which the son, Charles, became a part in November, 1872, when the firm name became Groce and Son.

Maybe Col. Groce felt a sense of gratitude to his hometown and surrounding community which supplied the raw materials and the ultimate wealth in Groce's pork-packing business and his unswerving loyalty to Circleville's interest was merely a means of saying "thank you."

At any rate we do know that the "colonel" was on the front line working and working hard every time that Circleville tried to put anything over. We'll all remember him as the chairman of the centennial celebration in 1910 and for the splendid job he did in making this event a really memorable and momentous one in the town's history.

As a staunch and hard-working member of the Republican party, Col. Groce rose high in prominence and in his earlier years directed the affairs of the party in Pickaway-co as well as shared a large part in Republican affairs of the state. But some of Col. Groce's closest friends were Democrats and he never allowed his political partisanship to interfere with any of his friendships.

In almost every civic activity, Col. Groce found a place. The city council, Rotary club, library board, Pickaway Country Club, the Masonic lodge, C. A. C., Circleville Benevolent Society, and chairman of the loan committee during the World War period, were only a few of the organizations in which he had a part and in all of them he did his part willingly and well.

His generosity was unbounded, much of it hidden behind an unostentatiousness which so characterized the man.

Col. Groce enjoyed life. Behind his 84 years there lurked a spark of youthfulness which made him one of us. He never seemed out of place even at a gathering of young folks. A keen sense of humor, and a determination to be as young as possible probably accounted for this.

A noble personage has left us in the "colonel's" passing. We trust that he has gone to a reward which awaits every man whose life has been so wholesomely spent.

To Mrs. Groce, the widow, to the children, grandchildren, relatives and friends, The Herald extends its deep sympathy.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By E. V. SHEPARD, Famous Bridge Teacher

TWO IMPOSSIBLE SCORES

OF COURSE impossible scores, whether made during rubber bridge or in duplicate games invariably come through errors, but they more frequently are noted in duplicate play, as those scores are preserved and scanned later on. Mr. Joseph E. Kennedy noted two impossible scores in a recent duplicate game in Brooklyn, on the single deal given today.

The small slam, West had of that would be needless and impossible.

Far more mysterious is how one North bidder played the hand at 6-Hearts doubled and made it. Careful play makes two tricks for West; a trump trick and the Ace of Clubs. It is conceivable that after two rounds of high spades declarer may have entered dummy with the Ace of hearts, then led the Q of spades. Of course a low ruff by West would be overruled with North's 8, thus enabling declarer to pick up all trumps outstanding. Such an event would enable North to win 12 tricks, and lose only to the Ace of clubs.

At another club the above hand appeared in a duplicate game. Some bid 6-Clubs and made a grand slam, although nobody bid the latter. Several tables played a call of 6-No Trumps, with East as declarer, but each of them went down a trick. Before Monday see if 6-odd at no-trumps can be made against perfect defense.

CHAPTER 49

BLAIR SOUGHT out the hotel dining room captain and found Miss Boardaux's meal checks. For a woman, who seemed ill and frail, she ordered a good deal... easily enough for two persons, he decided.

After more inquiry, he found the waiter who had taken up her meals. No, there was just the lady in the room... the parlor where he had served her meals. His description tallied with that of the bell boy.

When he had obtained all the information he could, Blair went up to his room to think things out. He had scarcely entered the room when there was a timid knock at the door.

Frowning, he called, "Come in." "Just me, sir," The chambermaid put her head in the door, and then entered slowly. "Sorry to bother you, sir, but there's something I forgot. I thought you might like to know... seed's you were interested in 708-10."

"What is it?" "When I went in to clean before these people what are in there now, I had to wash off all the mirrors with kerosene. Yes, I did. They were all painted over with something... an' you couldn't tell when you looked at 'em... except you couldn't see yourself in 'em. No matter how you looked, they were lots of mirrors in the suite... and they was all painted over... even the hand mirror on the dressin' table."

If Blair had been doubtful that Maurice was with Janet, he was positive now.

Was he so awful? Did he even hate his own reflection in the mirror?

The bell boy had not been certain the mysterious lady had told her driver to go to the docks...

Blair was speeding down to them again, anyway, on the chance the boy had heard correctly. This time he had a definite name that Janet was traveling under, that she might have sailed under. He could not understand how she could stay with Maurice, when it would have been so easy for her to get away... Maurice could not be with her all the time.

Why had she made that trip to the docks Friday? Probably, he conjectured to secure passage for herself... and Maurice for some place. But why hadn't she left him then? Why hadn't she run away? Could she be sticking to the bargain she must have made with him at the house near Boisevain? It was incredible to Blair Rodman. That she was in deathly fear of Maurice, he was certain... but she could get away!

The bell boy had said she took only a heavy leather box with her, and had returned with it.

At the docks he found no one by the name of Miss Marie Boardaux, had sailed on Saturday, the date for which she must have had her passage. He eagerly scanned all the lists for that day, but without any success.

The harbor master in charge, in return for a generous sized bill Blair handed him, was very helpful... but all this availed nothing.

"What's this?" Blair muttered.

casually as his eyes lighted on the name Wanderer, reading over the list of ships.

"A private yacht, owned by Casper Able, of Vancouver. Went out Saturday afternoon for a trip around the world."

"Was Mr. Able aboard?" "No. I believe not. He leased the yacht for a year to somebody... with a lot of money. At least, I heard rumors that he did."

"Do you keep a passenger list of yachts?" "No. We have nothing to do with them. I only know the ship was cleared to leave port Saturday."

"How much of a crew does it carry?" "About 25, I think. Big boat, one of the nicest here. Mr. Able has been waiting to sell it for some time, though. I suppose he thought he might as well get charter money for her as let her lie idle in the harbor."

He helped Blair find the men who had loaded the Wanderer. They knew nothing of the new lease, except the only passenger they had seen aboard her was a woman, dressed in tan, and heavily veiled.

After she went aboard, the Wanderer sailed immediately. Mr. Able had been there to see her off.

Blair, after some difficulty, got hold of Able on the phone. Yes, he said, he had chartered the Wanderer for a year to a Miss Marie Boardaux. She had insisted that there be no public announcement of the deal. She had called him Friday morning about the yacht.

The rental fee, Able said, was $20,000 which had been paid to him in gold when he went to the woman's suite at the Vancouver hotel Saturday morning. She was a very beautiful girl, with light hair and violet eyes. She did not say much. He did most of the talking, telling her about the ship and showing her pictures of it.

She said she was going on a long trip for her health. She demanded that the yacht be completely equipped for a long cruise by four o'clock that afternoon.

He had said it was almost impossible, but when she insisted, he had tried his best, and succeeded in having everything ship-shape on schedule time. He had been off, yes, she was alone. He had no idea where she was going, but he got the impression it was to be a world cruise. He had needed the money, and had not inquired too closely into Miss Boardaux's plans.

"Are you sure she was alone?" "Yes, I'm sure she was alone," Blair called again.

"Positive."

"There was no man with her?" "No. I personally took her to her stateroom. She asked to have some of her luggage put in another stateroom, adjoining hers. Then she bade me good-by, and raised her veil a little. I think there were tears in her eyes, but I'm not certain. She seemed even at my first interview with her, to be unhappy."

"Is there a wireless aboard the Wanderer?" "Yes... It is fully equipped with everything. Oh, another thing, I asked if she had given any orders to the captain, and she said no; would I tell him to head out through the straits, and when the ship was out at sea she would give him further orders. I did this, of course, just before I left the yacht."

"Who is the captain?" "O'Malley, a Vancouver man."

Blair held the receiver in his hand a long time after Able had hung up. He was in a telephone booth on the docks.

Janet on the Pacific... Hopeless, now, to try to find her. Five days she had been sailing.

At last, he left the docks and re-entered his car. He might, he thought, charter a boat and follow the Wanderer. He might, but where? Where had the yacht gone?

It might be months before he found trace of the boat. Even Able didn't know its destination. It might not touch at any port for days, and then it might be thousands of miles away, at some small harbor where it would not be reported...

Damn it! Why hadn't he thought of this before? O'Malley, the captain, was a Vancouver man. He might have a family here!

Blair jerked his car to a stop before a drug store, and soon found the street address of Captain Angus O'Malley in a new directory. He was not listed in the telephone book. The address was quite far out, and it was half an hour before he found it...

An old-fashioned house, with a sign, "Rooms for Rent", hanging crookedly from a post on the front porch.

If O'Malley's wife was at home, she might be able to tell him the course of the Wanderer. The captain might have known it, even if Able did not. At his ring, a middle-aged lady, stout and smiling, answered the door.

Yes, she was Mrs. O'Malley. Blair stated his errand as quickly as possible. Did Captain O'Malley tell her where the Wanderer was going? Mrs. O'Malley shook her head.

"I only know he is to be gone a year," she said. "I was at the boat to see him off, and I know that at that time he had received no orders where to go. He is to write me at the first port they enter, and he will, too, because he's the best husband a woman ever had!" She drew herself up, proudly.

"And you haven't heard anything yet?"

"No. It probably will be some time. The Wanderer may head for Zanzibar, or China, or I don't know. O'Malley's getting good pay this trip... it was a hurry call he got from Mr. Able to get the yacht in shape. He's Mr. Able's regular captain, but he takes other jobs when the Wanderer is in port. If he hadn't happened to have been reconditioning the yacht at the time, they'd never have gotten ready as quickly as they did. O'Malley had just been home from Alaska for a few weeks before he got this call. I understand he's to be gone for a year this time, I'll sure miss him."

"Would you phone me at the Vancouver hotel," Rodman gave her one of his cards. "If you hear from Captain O'Malley? I'm anxious to get in touch with someone aboard the Wanderer. If I change addresses, I'll let you know."

Mrs. O'Malley promised, and Rodman returned to the hotel.

New Dealers Preparing

Constitution Campaign

WASHINGTON—Whether you are for the Constitution or not, don't make any mistake about the fact that the Inner Circle has been extremely busy getting ready for an Amend-the-Constitution Campaign in 1936.

Even those Democratic politicians who felt Roosevelt made a mistake in issuing his "horse-and-buggy" blast after the Supreme Court's NRA decision, now are changing their tune.

Notable among these is Big Jim Farley.

Jim was heartick after Roosevelt championed the NRA. He felt that the Chief had been far too hasty in accepting the radical advice of Supreme Court-reformer Felix Frankfurter of the Harvard Law School.

But since his survey of the country, Jim says that if the Court holds the Guffey Coal Bill unconstitutional, Pennsylvania will go Democratic in 1936.

Henry Wallace makes a similar prediction about general farm sentiment if the Court kicks out the AAA.

Leo V. Chertok, Russian born New Yorker broker, sailed for London last week further to negotiate his announced $1,000,000 concession of mineral rights from the Emperor of Ethiopia. His announcement of the concession came when the State Department was worried sick over the absorptive Standard Oil deal. One day, at the height of the concession excitement, the Italian Embassy in Washington got a phone call from New York.

"This is Chertok," came a cock-sure voice.

"I don't believe I know you, Mr. Chertok," Ambassador Rosso replied.

"Oh, that's all right," came back the voice. "You will hear all about me in the afternoon papers. I am the man who has the concession."

"Which concession?"

"The Ethiopian concession. I just want to let you know that I will be reasonable. I will be glad to talk things over."

"I don't know what you mean, Mr. Chertok. Italy is not interested in any concessions in Ethiopia."

"But I am coming right down to talk to you about it," said Chertok.

"I see nothing at all to discuss, Mr. Chertok," shot back the Ambassador and hung up the phone.

Before he sailed, Chertok said he had called Washington simply to assure the Italian Government that he would make no trouble.

Neither the State Department nor the Italian Embassy has heard anything more about the Chertok deal.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

A "musical staircase" marks one of the more elaborate numbers of Ted Lewis and his musicians, aided and abetted by a group of comedians, in "Here Comes the Band." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's elaborate new musical romance that ends tonight at the Cliftona theatre. The scene represented the elaborate home of a millionaire, a former officer, holding a reunion of his old buddies of the regimental band.

Tomorrow and Thursday Katharine Hepburn will be at the Cliftona theatre in "Break of Hearts."

AT THE CIRCLE

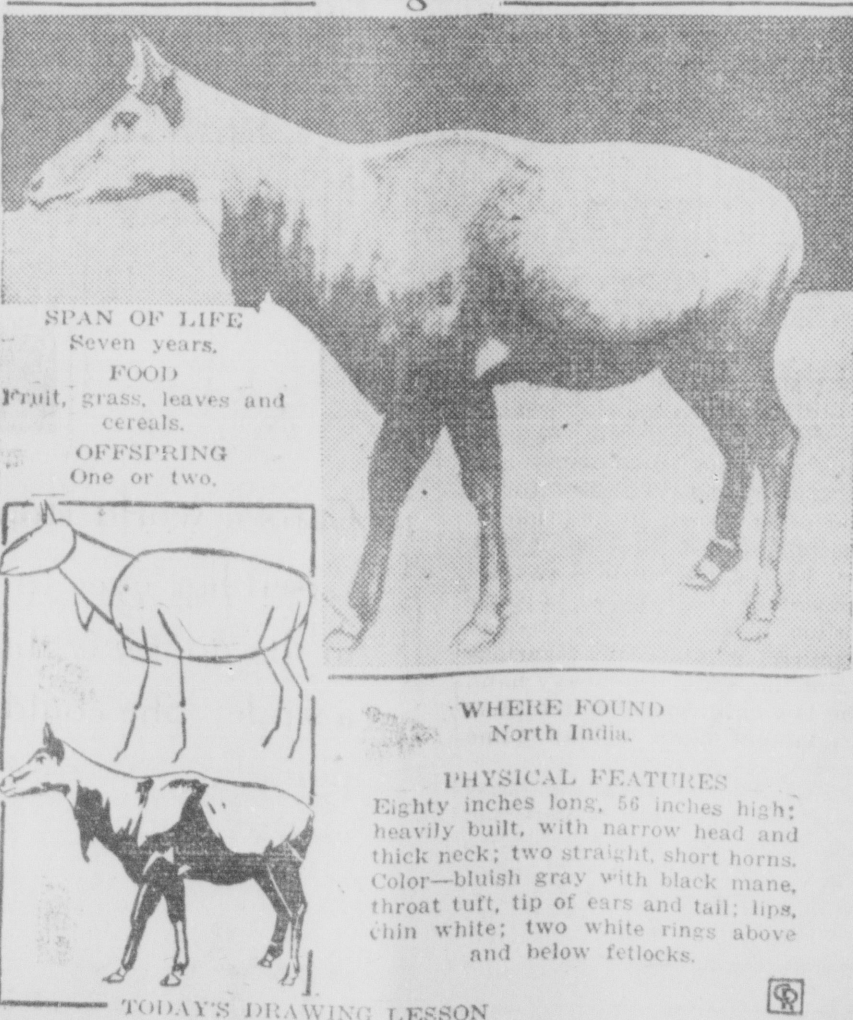

Ten former members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police are included in the cast of Kermit

Maynard's current James Oliver Curwood picture, "Northern Frontier," which comes to the screen of the Circle Theatre tonight and Wednesday. These men were chosen by Maurice Conn, the dynamic young producer whose courage evoked Kermit Maynard to stardom, because of their expertness in hand-to-hand fighting and for their knowledge of the strict routine and discipline of a mounted police post.

AT THE GRAND

The popular rumba-tune song, "La Cucaracha," will be heard as a comic parody in Spanish in the new First National production, "In Caliente," at the Grand Theatre.

It is sung as a novelty by Carlitos Salazar, the clown of the Mexican quartette which supplied special entertainment at Agua Caliente during the progress of the screen story.

TODAY'S DRAWING LESSON

Because the nilgau runs well enough to afford good sport, the chase of him amused Indian princes for ages. They are curious animals, quite friendly and tame but apparently continually angry. The nilgau has a stilted walk and drops on his knees to fight. He is generally found on exceedingly rough land. Wild dogs are his greatest enemies, but he is often the victim of tigers and leopards. The nilgau lives well in captivity, is easily housed and fed so that he is found in most zoos. He has been broken to harness.

Lateral and Pass Plays
Handed Out; $123 Collected at Club Meeting

That the gridders representing the Red and Black will play a wide open game against Groveport in their contest Friday was indicated today when Coach Jack Landrum announced that he had given the athletes two lateral pass plays and two intricate passing plays to add to the dozen assignments they already are working on.

Reports from the practice field are that the plays are so deceptive even the team using them was puzzled several times. All are ground-gainers, though, the athletes observed.

Work Three Hours

Monday evening saw the final drive for condition. Working hard for a full week, Landrum clinched conditioning efforts Monday with a practice that lasted three solid hours. The boys were tired enough at the end of the session to fall over and go to sleep on the football field. All are certain that good conditioning is essential to provide good football so all are willing to follow their coach's lead. Landrum works right with the boys.

The athletic association was given a big help Monday evening when $123 was collected at the combined meeting of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs at the Pickaway Country club. Dr. G. D. Phillips was in charge of the solicitation and today reported the following had contributed: R. L. Brehmer, Charles H. May, G. L. Nickerson, Fred C. Clark, Dr. G. D. Phillips, F. W. Lutz, T. O. Gilliland, E. C. Ebert, Renick Dunlap, Charles Radcliff, Paul Johnson, Fred Shaffer, Frank Barnhill, C. E. Hill, Robert Anderson, Elmer J. Copeland, Harry Hoffman, Ray W. Copland, Ben H. Gordon, Tom A. Renick, Claude Kraft, Meeker Terwilliger, Karl Herrmann, Duward Dowden, W. H. Nelson, Judge C. C. Young, William Davis, Charles T. Crist, Fred Tipton, George Burch, Robert Norris, William Radcliff, Sterling Lamb, Dr. E. E. Shane, E. E. Reger, Jack Landrum, and Fred Wattle.

To Equip Squad

It is hoped to have the squad in full equipment when it trots out on the field Friday afternoon at a few minutes before 3 o'clock. New crimson jerseys with big white letters, headgear painted white, new trousers and stockings will be donated, if plans of the school men, are carried out.

The money was presented Tuesday morning to Coach Landrum who will turn it over to E. E. Reger, principal and treasurer of the athletic association.

CRESS TO ADVISE STOOGES CLUBBERS

Virgil Cress, popular high school faculty member, was elected a new advisor of the Stooges club at its meeting Monday evening. Three new members were added to the club while a number of candidates were rejected for various reasons.

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—A band of young, fiery enthusiasm and the best of wishes and direction of veterans of such method in this important winning team.

In the heated campaign for the National League batting title, this not exhibits itself in the operations of Charles Grimm's Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs, although pursued by the rampant St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Giants, are at the moment in the midst of a 13 game winning streak over eastern rivals. The Braves are hot, and at this stage of the race, it appears likely they will hold right over into the world series in the National League representative.

All Easterners Lose

From three straight wins over the Cubs, the Giants, facing and fighting hard, managed Grimm's last yesterday to obtain an 8 to 1 thrashing. The Cubs followed today other eastern teams into Wrigley field where not a single eastern victory has been scored in the final western invasion of the season.

The youngsters Augie (Alan, Billy Herman, Frank Demaree, Phil Cavaretta and Stan Hack, have been pounding the ball unmercifully, and covering their sections of the field almost flawlessly, in contrast to the straining Cards and Giants, who have hobbled, floundered and beaten the way through recent contests. The aggressiveness of the youngsters has brought the veterans Freddie Lindstrom, Gabby Hartnett, Bill Jurgens and Lon Warnecke to a peak.

Bill Terry nominated Harry Gumbert, a rookie who rolled up 20 wins for Baltimore this season. Gambling for a win against the Cubs was, Warnecke, Terry guessed wrong for the youthful hurler was victim of a six run assault in the fourth inning.

Warnecke won his 19th game, and sent the Giants to a point four and a half games in the race.

Paul Dean Right

In St. Louis, the Cardinals kept pace with the Cubs as Paul Dean, thoroughly reconditioned from his fainting spell, bested Van Mungo, pitcher of the Dodgers 1 to 0 in a four hit game, while Mungo yielded only five.

Girl Scout News

Girl Scout Troop No. 4 held its regular meeting Friday, Sept. 13, in the basement of the Presbyterian Church. After opening ceremony, bills for the summer were collected and it was decided to start regular dues at the next meeting. During instruction period, we discussed the qualities of good poster work. A lively game followed, after which patrol council and another game were enjoyed. We closed with songs and taps.

Koenecke, Ball Player, Killed

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 17.—Leonard Koenecke, outfielder of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was killed here early today in a life and death struggle in a Detroit airplane which crashed a few minutes later in the center of the Long Branch race track.

The noted ball player, suddenly demented, as the plane flew in circles over suburban Toronto, attacked the Pilot W. J. Mulqueeny, of Detroit, who in turn slugged him with the fire extinguisher.

Koenecke slumped to the floor of the plane after a fierce twenty minute struggle.

Irving Davis, a Detroit parachute jumper, was the third man in the ship.

Others Uninjured

The ball player was dead when he hit the ground in the darkness. Both of his companions escaped injury. The plane, a Stinson Detroiter, was only slightly damaged.

"It's dead, I killed him," Mulqueeny related to the police a few minutes after the crash.

Both Davis and the pilot made statements which told of the long struggle against the suddenly crazed ball player.

The plane had been chartered in Detroit and was bound for Buffalo. It became lost in the darkness over Lake Ontario. Nearing Toronto, Koenecke suddenly lost his mind, his companions told police.

Mulqueeny and Davis are held on vagrancy charges and will be brought into court at 9 o'clock this morning.

Had Been Drinking

Davis told police that when he met Koenecke in Detroit the ball player had been drinking. But had behaved quite normally. It was not until they were over Toronto that he suddenly jumped on the pilot, and tried to grab the joy stick.

Davis lunged ahead and pulled him backward. The crazed man proved a tough customer, however, and overcame Davis. Koenecke grabbed at Mulqueeny again, who picked up the heavy extinguisher and battered the Brooklyn man over the head.

Coroner Dr. Warren Snyder said: Koenecke was dead before the plane crashed.

Mulqueeny was treated for wounds in his arm which he declared were caused by Koenecke biting him.

Mulqueeny is said to have told police that he had never met Koenecke until he was approached by him in a hotel in Detroit. The player asked him if he could be flown to New York, but refused to go when told the price. Later on he came back and asked if he could be taken to Buffalo. They agreed on a price and took off.

EARLY HUNTERS MAY LOSE GUNS

COLUMBUS, Sept. 17.—Hunters who kill squirrels out of season prior to October 1 will be in danger of losing their guns and also their hunting licenses for a period of one year, in return for a fine of from $25 to $200, it was stated today, following arrest of squirrel hunters in several parts of the State. The heavy work of the law enforcement bureau has been stepped down and all patrolmen are patrolling the woods every day, including those to prevent out-of-season shooting.

When he was caught hunting squirrels on the Roosevelt Preserve, Thomas Hunsicker and his friend, Thomas Hunsicker, were fined $25 each for hunting on a preserve without a license, and $25 each for killing squirrels, the separate charges. The arrests were made by Game Protectors A. H. Joachim and E. F. Swartz.

OPEN OFFENSE IS PLANNED BY TIGER MENTOR

Laterals and Pass Plays
Handed Out; $123 Collected at Club Meeting

That the gridders representing the Red and Black will play a wide open game against Groveport in their contest Friday was indicated today when Coach Jack Landrum announced that he had given the athletes two lateral pass plays and two intricate passing plays to add to the dozen assignments they already are working on.

Reports from the practice field are that the plays are so deceptive even the team using them was puzzled several times. All are ground-gainers, though, the athletes observed.

Work Three Hours

Monday evening saw the final drive for condition. Working hard for a full week, Landrum climaxed conditioning efforts Monday with a practice that lasted three solid hours. The boys were tired enough at the end of the session to fall over and go to sleep on the football field. All are certain that good conditioning is essential to provide good football so all are willing to follow their coach's lead. Landrum works right with the boys.

The athletic association was given a big help Monday evening when $123 was collected at the combined meeting of the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs at the Pickaway Country Club. Dr. G. D. Phillips was in charge of the solicitation and today reported the following had contributed: R. L. Brehner, Charles H. May, G. I. Nickerson, Fred C. Clark, Dr. G. D. Phillips, E. W. Lutz, T. O. Gilliland, E. C. Ebert, Renick Dunlap, Charles Radcliff, Paul Johnson, Red Shaffer, Frank Barnhill, C. E. Hill, Robert Anderson, Elster B. Copeland, Harry Heffner, Ray W. Davis.

To Equip Squad

It is hoped to have the squad in full equipment when it trots out on the field Friday afternoon at a few minutes before 3 o'clock. New crimson jerseys with big white letters, headgears painted white, new trousers and stockings will be donated, if plans of the school men, are carried out.

The money was presented Tuesday morning to Coach Landrum who will turn it over to E. E. Reger, principal and treasurer of the athletic association.

CRESS TO ADVISE STOOGUE CLUBBERS

Virgil Cress, popular high school faculty member, was elected a new advisor of the Stoooge club at its meeting Monday evening. Three new members were added to the club while a number of candidates were rejected for various reasons.

BURKE IS LEADING P. G. A. QUALIFIERS

COLUMBUS, Sept. 17 — Billy Burke, Cleveland golf pro, had another victory to his credit today after holing a difficult 15-foot putt which enabled him to lead the field of district qualifiers for the national P. G. A. tournament in a 36-round test over the Columbus Country Club course.

Burke, national open champ in 1931, turned in a card of 74-71-145 to lead the seven successful Ohio candidates who will compete in the national tourney at Oklahoma City Oct. 17-22.

Robert Strauss, Cincinnati, was the stroke behind Burke with 75-71-146. Other successful qualifiers included: Al Sargent, Toledo, 73-74-147; Reggie Myles, Cleveland, 72-75-148; Jim Kennedy, Toledo, 73-75-148; Maurice White, Columbus, 73-75-148; and Jack Collins, Mansfield, 77-71-148.

Other scores included: Frank Gehl, Cincinnati, 75-74-149; Art Smith, Covington, Ky., 74-77-151; Al Espinosa, Akron, 77-75-152; and Harry Boyer, Cincinnati, 78-79-157. Steve Zappe of Springfield withdrew.

CAPITAL IN ACTION

COLUMBUS, Sept. 17—Capital university's football squad, boasting 13 lettermen and 25 other grid aspirants, was sent through its second workout of the season today. Coach Bill Bernloch expects to hand his charges severe drills during the next two weeks in preparation for the season's opener Sept. 28 against Toledo.

TO BECOME PRO

COLUMBUS, Sept. 17—Jimmy Florie, former state amateur golf champion will turn professional soon it was revealed today. He plans to tour the south during the winter and participate in several Dixie tournaments.

CUBS SHATTER GIANT STREAK, P. DEAN RIGHT

Warnecke Beats Terry's Rookie Star; Cardinals Keep in Race in 1-0 Tilt

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—A blend of youths fiery enthusiasm and the level-headedness and discretion of veterans—of such material is built a permanent winning team.

In the heated campaign for the National league hunting, this fact exhibits itself in the operations of Charley Grimm's Chicago Cubs.

The Cubs, although pursued by the rampant St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Giants, are at the moment in the midst of a 13 game winning streak over eastern rivals. The Bruins are hot, and at this stage of the race, it appears likely, they will boil right over into the world series at the National league representative.

All Easterners Lose

Fresh from three straight wins over the Cards, the Giants, fuming and fighting mad, invaded Grimm's lair yesterday to absorb an 8 to 3 trouncing. The Giants followed three other eastern teams into Wrigley field where not a single eastern victory has been scored on the final western invasion of the season.

The youngsters—Augie Galan, Billy Herman, Frank Demaree, Phil Cavaretta and Stan Hack, have been pounding the ball unmercifully, and covering their sections of the field almost flawlessly, in contrast to the straining Cards and Giants, who have bobbled, fumbled and booted their way through recent contests. The aggressiveness of the youngsters has brought the veterans—Freddie Lindstrom, Gabby Hartnett, Bill Jurgens and Lon Warnecke to a peak.

Bill Terry nominated Harry Gumbert, a rookie who rolled up 20 wins for Baltimore this season. Gambling for a win against the Cub ace, Warnecke, Terry guessed wrong for the youthful hurler was victim of a six run assault in the fourth inning.

Warnecke won his 19th game, and sent the Giants to a point four and a half games in the race.

Paul Dean Right

In St. Louis, the Cardinals kept pace with the Cubs as Paul Dean, thoroughly recuperated from his fainting spell, bested Van Mungo, of the Dodgers 1 to 0, in a keen pitching duel. Dean gave up six hits, while Mungo yielded only five.

About This And That

BY THE
SECOND GUESSER

National Race Hot

The National baseball league is experiencing one of the hottest races in its long history. The result may depend on the outcome of the final game of the year between St. Louis and Chicago.

The standing of the teams follows:

Club	W	L	Pct	GR	to play
Chicago	92	52	.639	14	0
St. Louis	88	52	.628	14	0
New York	84	52	.617	15	1

Several requests have been made for an outline of the schedule from now to the end of the season—Here goes: The Cubs are at home now with the Giants and will play Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. According to the schedule there is no game Friday with Pittsburgh moving into the windy city for Saturday and Sunday games; on Sept. 24, Chicago goes to Cincinnati and also plays there the 25th, before going to St. Louis Sept. 26 to play four days ending the season.

Playing Brooklyn

The Cardinals are now playing Brooklyn and will continue to entertain the Trolley Dodgers through Thursday; Cincinnati follows Brooklyn into St. Louis on Sept. 21-22 with Chicago coming to town Sept. 26-29. New York finishes its schedule in Chicago on Thursday, then meets Brooklyn and Boston ending the season with five games with the Beantowners. Just who the schedule favors is beyond us but it would seem that if New York gets any kind of a break in Chicago, it will have a good chance to overcome the western foes by hammering the Brooklyn and Boston teams. As said before, the final series of the year between Chicago and St. Louis may bring the decision.

Most Strong Teams

Three big-name football teams appear on this fall's schedule of Buckeye conference teams—Illinois, Indiana and Syracuse will be met by Ohio university, Cincinnati and Ohio Wesleyan, respectively. The Syracuse-Wesleyan game is the seventh for the two schools. All six of the BAA teams will open their schedules on Sept. 28.

Dr. Phillip's famous last words: "You'll recover."

"Architects aren't the only persons who lay out a golf course," reports Mrs. C. T. Gilmore. "You ought to hear my husband."

A golf pro hired by one of the large department stores was approached by Allen Thornton and Ross Hunsicker. "Do you wish to play sir," he asked Allen. "Oh no," replied Thornton. "It's my friend who wants to learn, I learned yesterday."

A. L. Wilder has finally found a good caddy and he speaks for him in a tee shot on No. 3 so that his next shot was from between the limbs of a tree. His caddy asked him if he wanted him (the caddy) to move the ball. Wilder replied: "You can't do that," and the caddy said: "I know you can't but I can."

Girl Scout News

Girl Scout Troop No. 4 held its regular meeting Friday, Sept. 13, in the basement of the Presbyterian Church. After opening ceremony, bills for the summer were ordered paid and it was decided to start regular dues at the next meeting. During instruction period, we discussed the qualities of good poster work. A lively game followed, after which patrol corners and another game were enjoyed. We closed with songs and taps.

"MISS AMERICA" WELCOMED HOME

Bending low, Pittsburgh's mayor, William N. McNair, implants a kiss upon the lovely hand of "Miss America" as she returns to her native city from Atlantic City. She is 19-year-old Henrietta Leaver, who entered the nation-wide beauty contest as "Miss Pittsburgh."

SUEZ CANAL NOT LIKELY TO BE CLOSED; PACT KEEPS IT NEUTRAL, CONTROL SPLIT

Vital to British, but French Share Management

WASHINGTON — Once more the Suez canal leaps to the forefront of the news. This short route to northeastern Africa and India not only is Great Britain's "life line," but it is the short cut for France and Italy to their African colonies.

Today, the Suez canal is of prime importance in the threatened Italian-Ethiopian conflict. Interests in Great Britain have urged closing the canal to Italian vessels because of Italy's troop movement toward Ethiopia and the subsequent threat to Egypt, English protectorate, and the Anglo-Sudan.

Closing Unlikely

But the closing of the canal is not likely to occur, although the Egyptian government now has such action under advisement. The Suez is one of the canals that have been internationalized. As far back as Oct. 29, 1888, at a canal convention eight powers signed a treaty insuring the neutrality of the canal. Great Britain, however, is responsible for the protection of the canal. This power has been delegated to Britain by the company and by Egypt, which operates the canal by means of a mandataire concession. The canal is supposed to retrocede to Egypt in 1968.

While the British government owns seven-sixteenths, or 46 per cent of the company stock the administration is largely French.

The British have only 10 of the 32 directors. The French have 21 (although the French government, itself, does not own any shares in the company), and the Dutch have one.

Recently it was suggested in England that the British government sell its stock to British investors, who then could vote the 46 per cent of the total stock on block and obtain control of the company.

The board, despite its divided nationality, has worked in harmony, probably because the British and the French were on the same side in the World War.

British are Profiting

The British government, although it frowns on Italian troop movements through the canal, has profited by them. At $3.50 per man, it has been pouring men through the canal as fast as its transports could take them. During the last three months a total of $10,000,000 has gone to the onpaque Universelle du Canal Maritime de Suez in dues for Italian ships, men and freight that have been shipped through the canal.

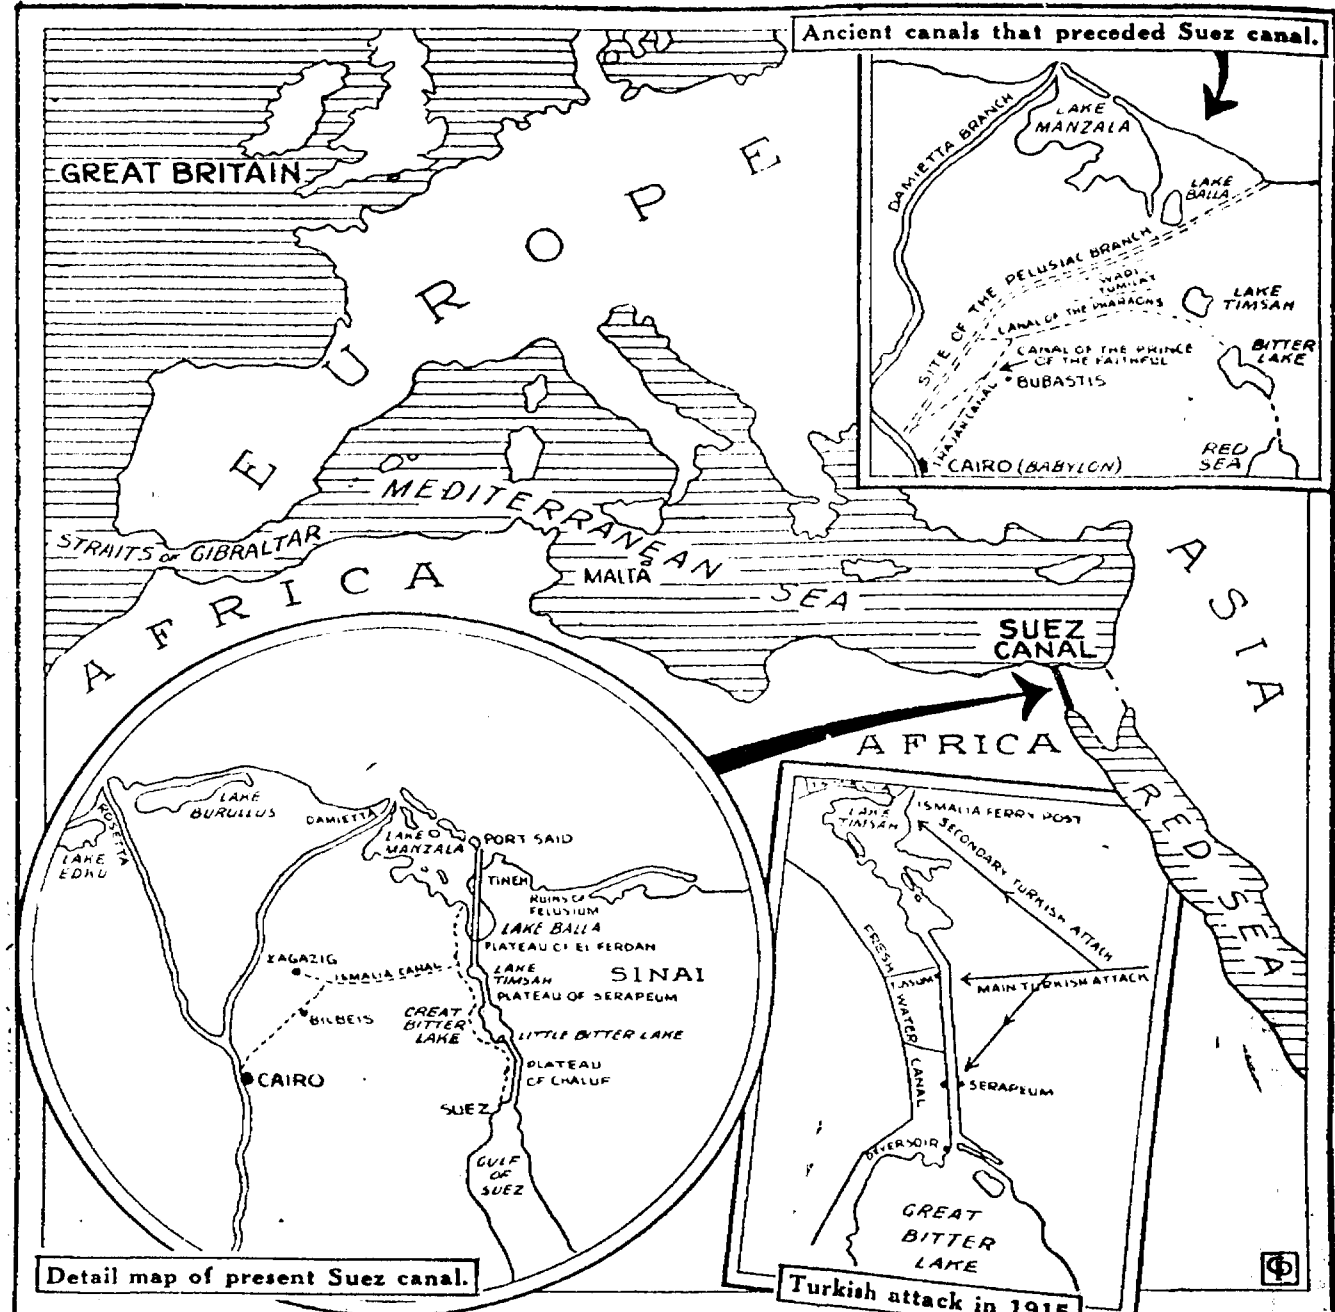

This includes the passage of 5,000 men rumored to have been returned to Italy suffering from dysentery, malaria and typhoid.

The idea of building a canal across the Isthmus of Suez, from what is now Port Said on the Mediterranean to Port Tewfik on the Red sea, originated as early as the eighth century A. D., with Harun al-Rashid.

Later the Venetians presented a scheme to the Egyptians, but the culmination of the plans was prevented by Turkish intervention.

Canal's Prosperous Beginning

In 1846, Prosper Enfantin organized a society, which he called the Saint Simonist society, in France. Pointed toward the regeneration of the world, the society included the construction of canals across the Isthmus of Panama and of Suez, in its platform.

In 1854 definite negotiations were first begun for the building of the Suez canal by Ferdinand de Lesseps, a French promoter. He obtained the necessary permission from Said Pasha, then Viceroy of Egypt and a friend of Lesseps', to form a company to construct the waterway from sea to sea, without locks.

The company finally was formed in 1858 after civil engineers had made investigations and had presented their reports.

Most of the original capital stock, to the extent of 8,000,000 pounds, was purchased in France and the Ottoman empire. Austria, Russia, England and the United States, were not financially interested at that time. In 1875, however, the British government purchased a block of 176,602 upon the advice of Lord Derby and Benjamin Disraeli, then British prime minister. (The necessity for a short water route to India because of the importance of that time.) Thus the British government became the dominating force, although French capital still has the largest investment.

Forced Labor at Beginning

Actual construction began on April 29, 1859. Forced native labor, consisting of Egyptians furnished by the Said Pasha and paid mostly in food and shelter, were finally dispensed with due to the influence of Nubar Pasha, Turkish foreign minister. In England also, strong disapproval of forced labor had been registered.

With construction swinging along, a direct route through the Isthmus had been adopted. Four dried-up depressions along this route were expected to lower the cost and time involved materially.

The total length of the two Bullah lakes, the Great and Small Bitter lakes and Lake Timsah was 27 miles. It was expected that no excavation would be necessary along this stretch. Actual construction resulted in the necessity of making greater or lesser excavations along all except eight miles of the 100-mile route.

Few Difficulties

No serious obstacles were encountered except the high hills between the Bullah lakes and Lake Timsah and the cutting of the rock at Serapeum.

Unlike the Isthmus of Panama, the Suez presented few difficulties because of the soil. The engineers rarely encountered rock; most of the soil consisted of sand or sandy clay or hard clay. Likewise no locks were required because the Mediterranean sea and the Red sea are practically on the same level. Thus the project, although one of great magnitude, was in general a simple engineering problem. By means of many mechanical appliances and the rapid removal of dredged material, the canal was finished ten years after it had been started. It was opened to traffic on Nov. 16, 1869.

Original Cost $85,000,000

Although the first cost amounted to 17,000,000 pounds in 1869, the figure has been increased because of the continued work of improvement that has been carried on. Incessantly the work of dredging, widening and straightening has been conducted along various points on the canal's length.

At the dedication celebration on Nov. 17, 1869, the Empress Eugenie of Austria was present, as one of the 28,000 guests. Her Almoner, Pere Bauer, delivered a sermon, in which he thanked M. de Lesseps, the Empress Eugenie, the Princes of Prussia and Holland, the viceroy of Egypt, and finally blessed the canal.

"WHITE COLLAR" RELIEF CLIENTS MAY OBTAIN JOBS

COLUMBUS, Sept. 17—"White collar" relief clients in Pickaway county will be given employment on 16 types of non-construction projects planned by the Works Progress Administration for Ohio.

L. L. Henninger, WPA administrator for District 11 which includes Pickaway county, was asked today by Charles C. Stillman, federal relief administrator for Ohio, to submit a list of projects from the district to employ eligible relief workers on this program.

The requests made to each of the 16 WPA administrators contemplate the employment of 74,605 workers all over the state on projects to cost $62,515,489 within a year.

The 16 types of projects to aid the white collar class of relief clients, who are not suited to the heavy construction work, the chief type of project thus far approved and started, include:

Projects dealing with recreation, such as community centers, playgrounds, amateur art, life guards, etc.

Library extension work and reclaiming and recataloging in public libraries and schools; home management service to indigent families; health service;

Reclaiming and indexing government records, topographic and census maps; soil testing of engineering type; sewing for public agencies throughout the state; child welfare projects; health clinic nutrition work; miscellaneous women's work; vocational training; worker's education; statistical research work; canning food and gardening projects and study of plant diseases.

6 BANDITS BLAST SAFE, GET $1,500

SANDUSKY, Sept. 17—Armed with machine guns and sawed-off shotguns, six bandits held up the Waldo Packing Co. here today, blew open a safe in the firm's office and escaped with between $1,000 and $2,000.

The gunmen drove up to the plant in a sedan and after entering the place, herded the eight night employees into one room and trussed them up in pairs.

While one of the bandits remained guard over the employees, the other five went to the plant's office and blew off the door of the safe with a high explosive.

Two of the victims managed to free themselves shortly after the robbers had left, and notified authorities. Sheriff Victor J. Moore, of Erie-co, started an immediate search for the gang and asked the state highway patrol and officers through northern Ohio to aid in the hunt.

Common Pleas

A suit for the conveyance of a property on the north side of Mill-st between Court and Pickett streets, was filed in common pleas court Tuesday by Howard W. McCafferty against his mother, Mrs. Hester Walton, as trustee, both of Circleville. The petition states on Sept. 17, 1925, Mrs. Walton was appointed as trustee in Franklin co probate court in charge of a fund due the plaintiff from the estate of his father, Hester McCafferty. Mr. McCafferty's address at that time was unknown, the petition says, and as a result filed in the trusteeship showed a balance of $1,055.75 invested in real estate. E. L. Crist is attorney for the plaintiff.

THIS SMART MODEL IS EASILY MADE

Marian Martin designs a smart, all-around frock that invites you to enter interest on garments with unique new front shirring! Distinctive and dressy! Set for evening and for a simple pattern, you'll be surprised how soon you can have your new frock! The shirring, either hand-made or machine-made, gives this frock a softly appealing look! The fabric chosen is easy to fit, made the shoulder-line exceptionally plain and graceful. There'll be a flattering appropriateness in the fabric, too, if you choose one of the heavy sheer synthetic crepes with a novel surface effect like the rust celanese with lace design used here. Sizes 14 to 22 and 32 to 40.

Barbecue Postponed — Out of respect to Col. Charles E. Groce, one of the country club's organizers, the annual barbecue scheduled for Wednesday, has been postponed one week.

Horse Falls On Leg — Porter

NEW TYPE OF TANK USED TO PURSUE FLEEING ENEMY

This new type of caterpillar tank played an important part in the British army exercises at Colchester, Essex, recently, where the Eleventh infantry brigade practiced the action of a force pursuing a modern army, with tanks doing the work formerly assigned to cavalry.

Fullen, 20, of Darbyville had the misfortune Sunday evening to have a horse fall on his left leg. Although no bones are believed broken, he is suffering much pain.

Child, 3, is injured. Nancy Jean Dean, three-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Dean of Mohi-inter-twp., is suffering a possible shoulder fracture after falling down the stairs Sunday afternoon. The child was found unconscious at the foot of the steps.

Teacher is Called. Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon for Mrs. Emma Bush May, well-known teacher in the Kingston schools, who died Sunday afternoon.

To Remodel Building. Workmen are removing the stucco from the building at Court and Franklin-sts., owned by Guy Pettit and occupied by the Pettit Tea Shop, in preparation for new asbestos shingle.

Joe Burns, Pinckney-st., who underwent a major operation in White Cross hospital, Columbus, last week is reported improving, and the condition of Frank Hoffner, S. Court-st., who is in Mt. Carmel hospital, is also improved. Mr. Hoffner had a major operation Saturday.

May Strike Snag

The attitude of these legislators seems to indicate that the program will hit a snag in the House of Representatives in view of the fact that the program contemplates building in only a few places in the state.

The constitutional question also bothers a number of the legislators. Under the Governor's proposal, a corporation or authority will be created to issue bonds for the building of new institutions and repair of a number of old ones. In addition to the outright grant of $5,000,000 expected from the PWA, approximately $5,000,000 will have to be issued in bonds, providing the Legislature appropriates the $5,000,000 asked for by Mr. Davey. The issuance of that many bonds is regarded by many as a ruse to get around the constitutional debt limitation. They feel that if the state assumes an obligation of that size, the issue should be submitted to the voters.

To Divert Profits

Opinion was general that the General Assembly would speedily enact legislation appropriating huge profits to the old age pension funds that enabling the payment of the balance of August awards, and September awards, which are being held up because of lack of funds.

The high as land is a monopoly and are denied free access to it to apply their labor to its uses, poverty and unemployment will exist. Vincent Snowden.

PWA WELFARE PLANS FACING HOT CONTEST

Fear Davey's Building Program May Be Voted Down in Legislature

COLUMBUS, Sept. 17—Contested opposition to the $20,000,000 PWA welfare building program was developing today among legislators preparing to meet tomorrow for the special session.

On the eve of the session, a number of senators who already have arrived in Columbus have expressed questions as to whether they will vote for the $20,000,000 appropriation asked by the Governor to start the program with the report: "What will it do for my county?"

old age pension appropriation, the urgency being obvious with half the August pension checks held up because of lack of funds.

Speaker J. Freer Bittinger (D) Ashland, told International News Service, the administration would not force upon the legislature at the first special session the issue of raising pension funds through an increase in the liquid fuel tax, although that oft-defeated plan likely will be revived at a subsequent special session as a means of permanently financing pensions.

To Divert Funds

Estimating that between three and four million dollars will be needed for the remainder of 1935, Speaker Bittinger said the administration proposes to raise it all by diverting state monopoly liquor profits to that purpose. He thought this revenue source would be adequate for the present.

The big controversial issue of the first special session was Davey's proposal that a special corporation be created with authority to issue bonds in the sum of $2,000,000, to be retired by taxation, for the purpose of carrying the state's portion of the govern-nor's proposed $20,000,000 state institutional building program.

Governor Davey has envisioned a short first special session lasting only about four days, but Speaker Bittinger withheld a prediction of its duration, having in mind other recent special sessions which dragged out for many weeks.

Bittinger did foresee final disposition of the old age pension matter before the end of this week. He said immediately after it is acted upon, the assembly will take up the institutional building matter through which Davey hopes to obtain a $9,000,000 grant and an $8,000,000 loan from the federal government, to which the state would add $3,000,000, if it can be raised.

PWA WELFARE PLANS FACING HOT CONTEST

Fear Davey's Building Program May Be Voted Down in Legislature

COLUMBUS, Sept. 17—Concerted opposition to the $20,000,000 PWA welfare building program was developing today among legislators preparing to meet tomorrow for the special session.

On the eve of the session, a number of senators who already have arrived in Columbus have answered questions as to whether they will vote for the $3,000,000 appropriation asked by the Governor to start the program with the retort: "What will it do for my county?"

May Strike Snag

The attitude of these legislators seems to indicate that the program will hit a snag in the House of Representatives in view of the fact that the program contemplates building in only a few places in the state.

The constitutional question also bothers a number of the legislators. Under the Governor's proposal, a corporation or Authority will be created to issue bonds for the building of new institutions and repair of a number of old ones. In addition to the outright grant of $3,000,000 expected from the PWA, approximately $8,000,000 will have to be issued in bonds, providing the Legislature appropriates the $3,000,000 asked for by Mr. Davey. The issuance of that many bonds is regarded by many as a rise to get around the constitutional debt limitation. They feel that if the state assumes an obligation of that size, the issue should be submitted to the voters.

To Divert Profits

Opinion was general that the General Assembly would speedily enact legislation appropriating liquor profits to the old age pension funds thus enabling the payment of the balance of August awards and September awards which are being held up because of lack of funds.
